

Gloomy Is This Line—Giants Lose, Cy Pieh Strikes Out Ty, but Yankees Lose

The Detroit Tigers Invade This City and Hammer Out a Clean-Cut Victory by a Score of 7 to 3.

By HEYWOOD BROWN.

"Oh, I don't know," said Cy Pieh. The Yankees were discussing Ty Cobb in the clubhouse. Donovan's men had just played Detroit and lost by a score of 7 to 3. Whenever a ball team loses to Detroit the name of Cobb always figures in the recriminations which follow.

This Cobb, so the discussion indicated, is quite a player. It was the opinion of the pitchers that he hit almost any sort of a ball. The catchers confessed that they had no peace when Ty was on the paths.

"Where does he get off?" continued Cy with increasing truculence.

A statistical expert on the team pointed out that Ty had no prejudice against southpaws, but treated them just as badly as he did righthanders. He added that in the light of present figures Ty promised to lead the American League batters by a margin of fifty points.

"Oh, shucks! He ain't so much!" was the farewell comment of Cy Pieh.

And the players allowed Pieh to depart in peace with his heresy. Cy had earned the right of free speech, for he had hurled his fast ball through a tradition. Hurried from the bullpen after the briefest sort of a warm-up, Pieh entered the game at the beginning of the sixth inning, and promptly struck out Ty Cobb with the utmost ease. Ty only the best of the first five innings. Only the best of the first five innings. Only the best of the first five innings.
